THIS NEWSPAPER does not, and will not even suggest if the borrowing of so much money to extend Elba's sewage system is good or bad. The only thing we do urge is that the city officials make every effort to get the best deal possible, which I'm sure they will do. We have lived and been connected with Elba nearly as long as those who are members of the City Administration and the Water and Light Board, and I'm sure they are going to be very careful as to plunging the city in debt to the extent that it will have to be paying right on through until the next and next generation before it is paid off. But it seems that a city has a hard time getting by without mortgaging the next generation in order to progress.

Though we have not been connected with Elba as long as members of the city council or members of the Water and Light Board, we are vitally interested in the progress of the city and yet as conservative as it is possible to be. We realize that those who are responsible are going to study the situation and know what they are doing before becoming involved in such a heavy debt for the city. We know that we do not have a right to suggest to them as to what they should or should not do. This is not our purpose.

Elba, as most small towns, does not appreciate what they call "outsiders", saying anything about what the city is doing, what the city plans to do, and what the city could do. Elba, like so many small towns, resents anyone who has not lived here a lifetime, saying anything about what is being done even if it is wrong or a consider major problems before making a final decision and that they will be almost certain so far as they can possibly vision before endorsing any decision.

That is all this newspaper will have to say about it. We'll support Elba in every way we can in every project that is for the good of the city.

THE SUBJECT of the old-time cane mill, the grinding of juice with the mill being pulled by a mule and the syrup being cooked in the vat caught more attention than anything I have known of lately.

Since the subject has come up, I have received an outpouring of just such a scene, I have received a picture from a Montgomery writer and a story of just such a mill, I have received numerous notes and telephone calls about it, and last week I received a note and picture from Helen Cravey. The picture she sent was the syrup pan being the following cut-line "Syrup Made The Old-Fashion Way—Pictured is Mr. Lee Dickworth, Route 6, Fayette, Alabama, as he prepared a run of the 'real McCoy' pure and delicious cane syrup. None of this 'vare-bought' stuff for him." Mrs. Cravey, in her note with the clipping said, "This will show your grandchildren where the syrup comes out. Thought you might like to have it."

I was delighted to get it and wish that I could have a print of the scene she sent. She did not say from what paper she had taken the picture but I'm thinking that it was from a farm magazine. Thanks, I was real happy to get this note and clipping and will file it along with other information of the old-time cane mill and syrup making that is fast becoming a "lost art" of days gone-by.

I CAN go along with the dropping of "White Supremacy" from the bulletins, accept us as being a part of Elba, if ever. But even so, we consider ourselves a part of Elba and we're certainly interested in Elba.

But as for my part, those boys elected to the city council were endorsed by a majority of the people who wouldn't have done so if they had not had confidence in them, so they are duty bound to have the welfare of the city at heart, and not self, and it is to these same people who elected them they will have to answer if they make a mistake.

I have all confidence they will do all in their power to that makes me think of my mother when she was being converted from oil heating to gas with a thermostat. She was a little against that thermostat and said, "That thing on the wall does not know when I am cold."

THE OLD-TIME "doctor book", of the kind that used to be a mainstay in multitudes of homes, has generally outlived its usefulness. It may actually present dangers to health nowadays, for large numbers of time-honored remedies have been made obsolete by modern discoveries and innovations. It is a striking fact that 90 per cent of the drugs which physicians now prescribe were unknown 10 years ago. And advances in surgery are being made daily.

But there is a definite need for a home medical book which is based on the most up-to-date knowledge and experience. The American Medical Association has just produced such a book, under the title "Today's Health Guide". It is a massive work, lavishly illustrated, that runs to more than 600 fact-filled pages, all written in a manner which makes them both easily understandable and always interesting to the lay reader.

The Guide covers just about every conceivable subject that has to do with our health. The anatomy of the human body is depicted and explained. The safeguards that all should adopt, such as periodic health examinations, are detailed. The problems of mental and emotional health are dealt with. There is a chapter on safety—in the home, on the highways, on the job, on the farm, and so on. Other chapters deal with dangerous and disabling diseases, the proper use of drugs, modern surgery, and community health resources. There is a section on medical folklore—on the mistaken beliefs, some age-old, that in many instances can be a menace to health. And there is much more. When illness or accident strikes, of course, no book can take the place of a doctor. But a work such as "Today's Health Guide" can be of great value in guarding and promoting good health. It has a place in every home in the land.

SAVE TIRES AND LIVES

In the last two years, the winning car in the Indianapolis 500 has finished the race without changing tires.

When tires will stand up for 100 miles at a 150 mile-an-hour average on the Speedway, it's a real tribute to their staying qualities.

If we stop to think about it, we all know tires are better than ever. Tires used to be commonplace, but now many drivers have never experienced one—and therein lies a danger. Too many of us have become complacent about tires. But an auto speed is a prime candidate for a blowout. We all know what happens when a tire blows out at high speed, especially a front tire.

Even if you avoid a blowout, driving under-inflated tires takes thousands of miles off their life. Accidentally, contrary to your notion, letting air out of your tires is no real help in getting off ice, sand or rock salt. So, if you want to save tires and possibly your life—check tire pressures regularly.

Major Tolson Tells Of Contractor Importance

Major General John J. Tolson, Commanding General of Fort Rucker, Alabama, told a luncheon audience in Washington, Monday that an operation the magnitude of Fort Rucker "would be difficult if not impossible without contract support."

Keynoting the Eighth Annual Army Aviation Contract Services Symposium conducted by the National Aerospace Services Association, General Tolson commented that 38 separate contractors assist the Army in turning out graduates from the Army Aviation School.

Services provided by the contractors "range from aircraft maintenance to helicopter service," he commented.

In another area, General Tolson described the acceptance throughout the Army of the concept of airmobile operations and development of the armed helicopter as two important results of our operations in Vietnam.

Concluding, he commented, "We should all recognize that 99 per cent plus of those aviators serving in Vietnam took their total training in aircraft maintained by a dedicated and capable contractor work force and that every aviator in Vietnam at some time or another in training has received instruction from a contractor-employed flight instructor. These two statements indicate to me the magnitude of the contractor effort, and the results obtained in Vietnam today are further testimony to the professionalism and dedication now underway at the Army Aviation School, where the monthly today."

Each of these 4 agencies plan to have a staff member to handle their normal flow of work, but the members of these staffs also will be fluent in another language.

Port Of Mobile Does Business In 4 Languages

World Trade speaks many languages, even though English is appearing as the world's second language and most people who are engaged in business between countries are adopting it.

But not everybody. Many businessmen in other countries know hardly a word of English. Alabama firms receive letters from their overseas customers in languages other than English. This communications barrier has been a hindrance in the increasing trade for the Port City of Mobile and the State of Alabama.

Unfortunately babies can't talk and tell their physicians where the pain is or just what is troubling them. The best they can do is cry a distress signal.

Physicians use their senses of smell, touch, sight and hearing very expertly. Guided by experience and some times aided by X-ray and diagnostic tests, they diagnose the cause. When medication is needed we can fill any prescription.

Food Commodities Given To Fewer Persons This Year

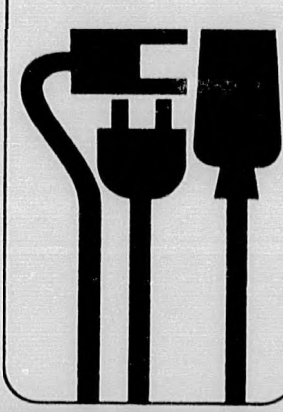

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that 104,068 needy persons in Alabama received USDA-donated food commodities during November.

This was 6,442 persons more than the number of recipients during October, but 5,547 less than during November, 1964. Coffee County had 3,460 persons receiving USDA foods in the program.

The commodity distribution program in Alabama is administered by the Alabama Department of Penitentiaries and Security in cooperation with USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. The foods were distributed to needy families in 27 counties.

The USDA foods distributed to the Alabama families during November included dry beans, split peas, flour, corn meal, rice and grits, canned beef, lard, shortening, dry milk, butter or margarine, and peanut butter.

THE EYES OF GOD

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

I was a little girl, then. The pews at our church were rough wooden benches, and my feet wouldn't reach the floor.

But, as though it were yesterday, I remember his sermon. About a woman who poured oil on the feet of Jesus. Some people said this was a wasteful thing to do. The oil was expensive; the money might have been given to the poor . . . But Jesus wasn't angry with the woman!

"In the eyes of God," our old minister said, "the most precious treasure is the love in a human heart."

No single thought has influenced my life more than that one. Most of my happiness—all of my strength when sorrows come—have been somehow entwined with that simple truth. I shudder at times to think what if that day I had not been there?

A sermon, a prayer, a Bible passage does not touch the same chord in every heart. But as you seek each Sunday to see life through the eyes of God, there will come mighty visions stirring the depths of your soul.

HEART RESEARCH PROLONGING 40,000 LIVES

PROGRESS IN THE FIGHT AGAINST HEART AND BLOOD VESSEL DISEASES since 1950 is reflected in this chart. Based on the latest vital statistics, about 250,000 Americans died of these diseases in the single year. Had the 1950 death rate persisted, the toll would have been about 290,000. Chart shows, by age and sex groupings, the estimated 40,000 lives saved. Since 1948, the year of the first Heart Fund Campaign, your Heart Association has been the spearheading force in the fight against the nation's Number One health enemy. You can help in this fight by giving generously to the Heart Fund.

Stock Certificates Were Issued In 1288

The world's oldest stock certificate—issued on June 16, 1288 to a Bishop Peter Eloffson—is made of paper.

The 677-year old document represents a one-eighth share in the oldest known, publicly owned corporation in the world, Stora Kopparberg, originally a copper mining company, reports the American Paper Institute.

Inscribed in Latin, the paper certificate was validated by King Magnus Ladulås and other officials. For the past two years it has been on display at the Swedish Pavilion of New York's World Fair, where it pointed up the fact that free enterprise flourished to a considerable degree in the Middle Ages. Theme of the exhibit was, appropriately enough, "Creative Sweden—Land of Free Enterprise."

Today, according to a recent study completed by the New York Stock Exchange, more than 20,000,000 people in America own shares worth over $400,000,000. And virtually all of those shares are made of a high quality, almost indestructible bond paper!

Each Tuesday he'll beat the selective Service Office in Elba from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. From 12 a.m. until 1 p.m. he'll be at the Employment Office in Enterprise.

Revenue Men Request ID Number

The Internal Revenue Service says that payers of dividends and interest income who have not requested taxpayers identifying numbers from stockholders, depositors, or other income recipients, may incur penalties upon continued failure to comply with the law.

The IRS said that compliance with the dividend and interest reporting requirements has generally been good, but pockets of noncompliance still exist.

The law requires business firms to file Forms 1099 and 1096 by February 28, 1966, on or more paid or credited to an account in calendar year 1965, and to furnish statements to payees. The payments reported to IRS must be identified by the tax account number of the recipient.

This reporting requirement also covers payments of royalties, pensions, annuities and certain other types of income when they amount to $500 or more a year.

The IRS said that paying institutions, trade organizations and other business groups have conducted extensive educational and informational campaigns on interest and dividend reporting requirements since they became effective in 1963, and on the need for taxpayers identifying numbers.

Results of the programs have been good, according to IRS, but additional steps must now be taken to obtain full compliance.

Two other new "wrinkles" are also being added to the old test procedure. One is that results will come back to the farmer on a new reporting form, which will be typed by the computer.

Probably the most important change is that no fertilizer grade examples will be listed. The pounds of actual plant nutrients needed per acre will be recommended as on previous reports. Instructions on how to select your fertilizer grade.

"We feel that this will definitely help farmers, especially in the spring when they're trying to get their fertilizer as soon as possible," adds Kinard. The new system is expected to be in operation by January 1.

FARM NEWS

4-H PROJECTS
I met with 4-H Club boys last week at Kinross, Zion Chapel, Damascus, Mt. Pleasant, and Goodman. A lot of boys are selecting and we greatly appreciate their support.

NEW REPORT
Coffee County farmers and others who are sending soil samples to Auburn will receive a somewhat different report from those in the past. One of the main differences is that grades of fertilizer will not be given such as 4-12-12 or 8-8-8 instead the number of pounds of actual phosphorus and potash will be given, for example, the recommendation on corn might call for 30 pounds of phosphorus and 30 pounds of potash, in this case most farmers would simply use 400 and this would give the recommended amounts of fertilizer nutrients.

WATER SYSTEM
Basin Community is making plans for a community water system similar to those which are being worked on in the Mt. Pleasant and Damascus communities.

FRANK BRITT FAMILY
The Frank Britt family of Mt. Pleasant will be honored at a Master Farm Family Dinner banquet in Auburn Wednesday, January 26. Home Agent, Sara Hutchinson, and I will be attending this special occasion with them. We join all the people in the Mt. Pleasant Community and in fact other Coffee County residents who know the Britt family in congratulating them on this achievement. I know this will be a memorable event for all of the family.

TRUCK CROPS
A Truck Crops Dinner Meeting was held Tuesday night, January 18, at Paul's Cafe in Elba. We had a good group of growers to attend this meeting. Production and marketing specialists from Auburn, M. R. Glasscock, and Perry Smith led a discussion on Production, Marketing, and Outlook for 1966.

Tri-State Weather Outlook Released
The Thirty-Day Agricultural Weather Outlook for the period mid-January thru mid-February for South Georgia, Southeast Alabama and Northwest Florida issued by the Weather Bureau Advisory Agricultural Meteorologist, Georgia Coastal Plain Experiment Station, Tifton, Georgia, January 15, 1966 is as follows:

Temperatures during the period mid-January thru mid-February are expected to average below normal over all of the Tri-State agricultural area. Daily mean temperatures are expected to average between 50 and 57 degrees. Daily maximum temperatures will range from 60 to 69 degrees with afternoon temperatures reaching 75 degrees or higher on 2 or 3 days during the period. Daily minimum temperatures will average between 39 and 47 degrees with early morning temperatures falling to 32 degrees or lower on 3 or 4 mornings during the period.

Sunshine during the period mid-January thru mid-February is expected to be about 55 degrees of possible with several periods of extended cloudiness.

Soil temperatures during the next 30 days are expected to remain at near yearly minimums. Temperatures under four inches of bare soil are expected to average between 48 and 58 degrees.

We have several other projects, others have selected home beautification, farm safety, poultry, corn, peanuts, gardens, electricity, tractor maintenance and several other projects.

We have very few boys taking cotton projects. Several boys expressed an interest in truck crops projects. Others are interested in improving forestry management. We plan to keep all 4-H members supplied with the very latest information regarding their individual projects. Each club member is urged to keep a complete record. Parents can give a lot of help in project completion and also in record keeping.

LAND OPEN TO PUBLIC

Today, over 50 million acres of land—about 80% of the entire acreage owned by paper companies and independent woodland owners—are open to the general public, reports the American Paper Institute.

Plus nearly 40,000 miles of streams for fishing and 750,000 acres of lakes for boating and swimming.

If you work after you apply for social security benefits and earn $1500 or less in a year beginning in January, 1966, you will receive all your social security payments for the year, Harry N. Scott, social security district manager in Dothan, announced recently.

Beginning in 1966, if you earn more than $1500 in a year, the general rule is that $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $2 of earnings over $1500 and up to $2700. If you earn over $2700 in a year, $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $1 earned over $2700.

There are two exceptions to this general rule: neither earn more than $125 working for someone else nor do substantial work in a business of your own; you will get your benefit for that month no matter how much you earn in the rest of the year.

Because of this change, you cannot lose by applying as soon as possible for any benefits due you even though you continue to work, Mr. Scott said.

For more information, contact your social security office now located in the Federal Building, 100 West Troy Street, Dothan, Alabama. The telephone number is 794-3161. For your convenience, the social security office will be open on Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

(2) For months after you are 72 years of age, there will be no deductions from the benefits because of work after you reached 72.

If a persons works after applying for retirement benefits, the additional earnings may increase the amount of his monthly payments, Mr. Scott continued.

The Social Security Administration will use its electronic computers to determine whether your recent earnings will increase the benefit amount. If so, the increase will be made automatically and no application is necessary to have the benefit refigured.

Because of this change, you cannot lose by applying as soon as possible for any benefits due you even though you continue to work, Mr. Scott said.
